BLUEPRINT BOOT CAMP

... For the construction professional in the field

Blueprint Boot Camp is a blue print reading class designed for the men and women of construction who work with blueprints. Learn about the basic skills of architectural blueprints from language and terminology to reviewing the organization of plans and specifications.

The 16-hour class will cover all aspects of a project beginning with sitework and then progressing to foundations, structural, building envelop, MEP, interior finishes, and furnishings. The student will learn how to distinguish between plans, elevations, sections and details; learn about schedules and legends, identify symbols and read specs. The class will also feature a section discussing architectural and industrial projects. Course will be taught by Alan Roberts with Mobil Steel International, who has over 20 years of blueprint reading experience.
